

THE NEXT PARADIGM!

Abstract

The landscape for higher education is changing, and quickly. Global, national, and local influences including AI, climate crisis and SDGs, equity and diversity, shifting demographics, polarized politics and new kinds of demands from society all necessitate a new kind of university with a renewed focus on providing meaningful good. This session will talk about the current environment in higher education and what leaders need to be doing to orient their institutions to meet the challenges and opportunities of the future.
