

Dr Thi Kim Anh Dang is a Senior Lecturer (TESOL and Languages Education) at the Faculty of Education, Monash University and a Senior Fellow (Higher Education Academy, UK). She holds a PhD in TESOL teacher education from the University of Melbourne. Kim Anh has received research awards from the University of Melbourne, Australian Association for Research in Education, Applied Linguistics Association of Australia, and American Educational Research Association.

Her research interests include English-medium instruction, teacher collaborative learning, professional learning, higher education, educational policy, and Vygotsky's sociocultural theory. Kim has published in high impact international journals, including Teaching and Teacher Education, Critical Studies in Education, and Current Issues in Language Planning.